

HPAT – Ireland 2014 Candidate Performance

HPAT – Ireland candidates received a score for each of the three test sections (Logical Reasoning and Problem Solving; Interpersonal Understanding; and Non-verbal Reasoning). The maximum score that can be achieved for each section is 100.

A candidate's overall score is calculated from the three section scores. The maximum possible score is 300. The graph below provides information about the distribution of candidate scores for the 2014 sitting of HPAT – Ireland. The score is on the x axis, and the number of candidates who achieved that score is provided on the y axis.

HPAT – Ireland 2014 Percentiles

In addition to receiving an HPAT – Ireland score, HPAT – Ireland 2014 candidates also received a percentile to provide information about how well they performed against all candidates who sat HPAT – Ireland in 2014.

The graph below provides information about the percentile for each HPAT – Ireland 2014 score. If a candidate received an overall HPAT – Ireland score of 154 they would be at the 55th percentile. This means that they have done as well as or better than 55% of the 2014 HPAT – Ireland candidates. If a candidate received an overall score of 188 this would mean that they were at the 95th percentile. This means that they have done as well as or better than 95% of all HPAT – Ireland 2014 candidates.

